SEMINAR TO FOCUS ON AIR QUALITY PERMITS, SUMMER ENERGY ISSUES
EPA Region 9 New Air Quality Manager is Keynote Speaker

(Phoenix)— If you need an air quality permit, want to learn more about the one you have, or need to know what happens if the power goes out this summer, then don't miss the seminar the Maricopa County Environmental Services Department and the Arizona Association of Industries (AAI) are hosting on June 19. Jack Broadbent, the new director of the EPA Region 9 Air Quality Division will be the keynote speaker.

"This seminar will update and explain the hot topics for our air quality permit holders," said Steven Peplau, Air Quality Division Manager. "They need to know how the changes in our air quality program will affect them, what to do about the summer energy situation, and what the new eight-hour ozone standard means to all of us," Peplau said.
